Marshaling the Power of Systems Thinking

See the Full Article with Webinars and tools for adopting a systems approach to change.

Article by Dr. Kimberly Jinnett

As a researcher and educator familiar with much of the current state of data quality on employee wellbeing, health and work-related outcomes, I cannot overstate the value of taking a systems approach to learning and action. This necessarily involves humans thinking about and communicating with one another -- often aided by data, information and analytic results -- but primarily digging deep around their own and others' assumptions about why the results they observe may not be the results they desire.

Workforce Health and Performance — Bright Ideas Survey

Take the survey here: <https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/TWLW87T>

The Center for Workforce Health and Performance wants your Bright Ideas. We will feature these ideas, select guest bloggers, delve deeply on topics and inform research and practice by spreading these Bright Ideas.

For our first Bright Ideas survey we would like to know your thoughts on the best ways to support workforce health and performance.

Our challenge — can you do it in 20 words or less?
